

March 30, 1956

Dear Mrs. ~~Stuff~~,

Enclosed is your check for March. You will note that the hourly rate is still 75¢. The $1.00 minimum wage rate which became effective on March 15 is, as you probably know, mandatory only in businesses which in some way operate interstate; and, of course, we do not come under such classification. Also, the law was passed after the library's 1956 budget had been figured, so there was no allowance made for such an increase in the hourly wage rate for library employees.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth B. Hage
Librarian
